

2026 Louisiana Childhood Adversity Resilience Education (LA CARE) Network

Educator Cohort Trainings

Participate in the 2026 Cohort Training Series to become a certified volunteer educator with the Louisiana Childhood Adversity Resilience Education (LA CARE) Network!

The Bureau of Family Health Louisiana Childhood Adversity Resilience Education Network trains professionals and community members to become certified volunteer educators. Volunteer educators partner with schools, nonprofits, and community organizations across Louisiana to provide no-cost presentations that highlight the importance of building felt safety, resilience, and systems-level policies rooted in trauma-informed practices. After completing one or more of the trainings below, participants will be certified as volunteer educators — ready to share knowledge, lead workshops, and build stronger, more resilient communities.

Whether you are a teacher, community leader, or health professional, the Louisiana Childhood Adversity Resilience Education Network welcomes you to apply today.

Space for each training cohort is limited to 30 participants. The dates and locations of the trainings are subject to change. Exact locations, dates, and times of the trainings will be shared after applications are received and participants are accepted to participate.
